

Patient Instructions after Dentures

- Dentures are constructed so that they rest on top of your gum tissue. Therefore, all the chewing forces must be borne by your gum tissue and underlying bone. As a consequence, you may experience some soreness or discomfort under the denture base. This may be alleviated by adjustments and tissue treatment. In some cases, it takes several appointments before the denture can be comfortable.
- If this is your first denture, it may take a while to become acclimated to how it feels. Initially, the denture may stimulate your gag reflex, feel very large in your mouth or simply feel strange. Even experienced denture wearers need some time to adjust new dentures. Any continuing pain, discomfort or difficulty adapting to your denture should be brought to our attention.
- If you discontinue wearing your denture for an extended period of time, you may find that it will not fit properly when you attempt to wear it again. This is due to changes in the gum tissue over time. If this occurs, please call our office. In extreme cases, a new denture base may need to be constructed.
- Clean your denture using an over the counter denture cleaner (i.e Polident). Also, brush your denture using water and a liquid dish soap. Do not use toothpaste, as many types of toothpaste contain abrasives that may damage your denture. Do not soak your denture in bleach to remove any stain or discoloration.
- Your gums need several hours a day to relax and rest of the denture. Therefore, your dentures must be removed and left out of the mouth for 6-8 hours each day. We recommend you remove your denture before sleep as this is the most convenient time to go without your dentures.
- When your dentures are out of the mouth, please place them in the case provided to you. Do not wrap them in a napkin, tissue, or paper towel as they may get accidentally thrown away.

Please follow these home instructions carefully and call our office if you have any questions or concerns. (434) 239 6948
